

Sequoyah Dental Arts offers artistic dentistry with a personal touch

By Shana Raley-Lusk

Dr. Pablo Foncea is a master at his craft, creating beautiful, natural-looking smiles that leave his patients speechless when they see the results.

However, there is more to Foncea than meets the eye. He is an artist whose passions include jewelry making, sketching and working with pastels. His dentistry is reflective of these unique skills, and his artistic ability is evidenced by the unbelievable smile makeovers and custom dentures he has created for patients.

At Sequoyah Dental Arts, Foncea offers true custom dentures. He does not use the “one size fits all” approach offered by many dentists.

“Instead of making a denture out of a mold, we look at the patient’s face and see how the denture fits the face,” says Foncea. “In this way, we are able to achieve a much more natural result.”

The results speak for themselves. Upon completion of their dental work, it is not unusual for Foncea’s denture patients to become completely overwhelmed with joy at first sight of their natural, beautiful new smiles. Patients are often surprised at how truly life-changing this type of unique dental work can be. Foncea takes every detail into consideration, from creating an ideal fit to selecting the most natural-looking color for the denture.

Many patients go into the process believing that they have to settle for a denture that is less aesthetically pleasing in order to get the function they want. In reality, custom dentures can take years off an individual’s age. First, the aesthetic value often adds greatly to their overall appearance. Secondly, the natural look of the patient’s new smile offers a renewed sense of self-confidence.

After completion of hundreds of smile makeovers, Foncea has learned that when a custom denture is done right it can be the most dramatic smile makeover possible. It is his goal to create dentures that ensure stability as well as enhance the individual’s appearance.

The smile success wall featured in the waiting area at Sequoyah Dental Arts says it all. Many of Foncea’s patients are pictured wearing their fresh, beautiful new smiles.

“Some of these are denture patients,” Foncea says. “But most people have a hard time distinguishing them from any of the other smiles pictured here.”

Foncea, who took over a long-standing dental practice in 2001 and moved to his current location on Kingston Pike in 2004, makes it a priority to create an inviting atmosphere for his patients. The warm, welcoming feel of his practice is a pleasant contrast to the typical dental office. Patients will feel right at home and are even offered refreshments while they wait.

Foncea offers denture patients the skills and experience of a cosmetic dentist with hundreds of smile success stories. His artistic edge provides a natural and perfect fit to the patient’s face.

“There is an artistic eye to creating dentures that look very natural,” says Foncea. “The harmony is what you are looking for.”
